

THE EVENING BULLETIN

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1866.

SIXTY million pounds of bogie butter are palmed off on the unsuspecting people of this country annually.

CAPTAIN CHARLES MORGAN, a brother of General John H. Morgan, has been appointed Storekeeper under Collector Robinson, of this district.

The statement is made that Ireland consumed over $4,000,000 gallons of liquor last year at a cost of $55,000,000. If this be true, her troubles should not be wondered at.

A CLERGYMAN of Dodge City, Kansas, says 100,000 cattle and 100 human beings perished during the blizzard within a radius of 10 miles of that city. This is a pretty "tough one," but we haven't any grounds to doubt it.

HEAVY and destructive floods are reported from various sections of the East. Our citizens know how to sympathize with the sufferers when they remember that just at this time two years ago we were experiencing the great flood of 1864.

The revival which Sam Jones and Sam Small have brought about at Cincinnati by their five weeks' labor is certainly one of the most wonderful that has ever been witnessed in this country. It is just what that city has been badly in need of, though for a long time, and it is to be earnestly desired that the glorious work will not end now, simply because the two evangelists have been called elsewhere.

The Cincinnati Enquirer has discovered a very appropriate name for the editor of the Commercial-Gazette, and now alludes to Halestide as "Rat." Halestide "is a good illustration of Halestide's leading traits. He is continually "gnawing" at something or somebody, and trying to ruin and destroy—not at the people of the South, then at some of the illustrious characters of the North, who may have seen fit not to grant his demands."

The Tobacco War Ended.

The particulars of the tobacco war, the circumstances attending its prosecution, and the efforts of the two great to effect a compromise, are familiar history, and it but remains to state that yesterday the hutchet was buried and the dove of peace rests with folded wings upon the transom, adoring horses-alive, or worts to that effect. The tobacco men met yesterday and Major Withers, who was seen late last night at the Emery, gave the result. The five warehousemen who have been holding off from the association return to their allegiance, while in return the buyers and brokers concur—the points enunciated in the resolution passed a few days ago at the Palace Hotel meeting. By this Henry Queen and Mr. Tabb are elected inspectors, while to Major Withers goes the position of supervisor of weights. The three equally divide profits and losses.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

If the members of the Legislature keep on as they have started out, their constituents will soon come to the conclusion that law-making is a farce, and a very expensive one to the State at that. What one Legislature does the next Legislature turns around and endows. A few years ago a fish law was passed upon the statutes of the State and there were but few who thought it was otherwise than a good law. The present Legislature has abolished it after a fight of several days. The Geological Survey was established a few years ago. A bill to abolish it has passed one House and is now pending before the other. The same thing can be said as to the State Board of Equalization, and so the thing goes. This leads us to remark, if laws are to be put on the books by one Legislature simply to be abolished by the next, where is the good of going to the trouble and expense of passing them? It's a "luxury" which the people of the State can't afford to pay for just at this time.

Talnage on Marriage Advertisements.

In a recent sermon on the "Marriage Ring," Dr. Talnage says:

"Avoid all proposed alliances through newspaper advertisements. Many women just for fun, have answered such advertisements, and have been led on from step to step to catastrophe most infinite. All men who write such advertisements are vilians and lepers—all, without a single exception. All! All! Do you answer them just for fun? I will tell you a safer and healthier fun. Thrust your hand thro' the cage at the menagerie and stroke back the color from the East India. Put your head in the mouth of a Numidian lion to see if he will bite. Take a glassful of pitchgreen, laced with some delightful hemlock. These are safer and healthier fun than answering newspaper advertisements for a wife.

The writers of marriage advertisements may be "vilians and lepers," but the women who answer them are merely idiots. That's the sort of game the advertisements hunt for. And they get them."
